

Learning Objectives for Undergraduate Rotations in Endocrine Surgery Year 3 Clerkship

- Identify signs of excess function of the thyroid, parathyroid and adrenal glands.
- Demonstrate the appropriate clinical and investigative plan for a patient presenting with a solitary thyroid nodule, hypercalcemia, an adrenal incidentaloma or adrenal dysfunction
- Describe the most common thyroid, parathyroid and adrenal tumour syndromes.
- Differentiate the clinical and pathologic manifestations of the most common and serious adrenal lesions.
- Describe the risks of thyroid surgery.